

MEETING OF AMERICAN CITIZENS AT PARIS.

Speeches of Col. Fremont, Cassius M. Clay,
Anson Burlingame, Rev. Dr. McClintock and others.

The American citizens in Paris favorable to the Union breakfasted together in the Hotel "Du Louvre" on the 29th. About 150 attended, one-third being ladies, including the wife of Gen. SCOTT.

Mr. COWDEN presided. A resolution was adopted pledging the meeting to maintain the Union under any circumstances.

Mr. DATTON said, since his arrival in Paris, he could detect no unfriendly feeling on the part of France to the United States, and certainly no French citizen would be found among the privateers. He expressed the conviction that the rebellion would be put down.

CASSIUS M. CLAY spoke at some length. He was energetic on the conduct of England and the recognition of Southern belligerents' rights. He declared if ever the flag of England became associated with the black flag of the South, the Star Spangled Banner of the United States, and the tricolor of France would be seen against her, for France had not forgotten St. Helena.

ANSON BURLINGAME spoke on the same subject.

Col. FREMONT was next called on, and was received with enthusiasm. He made quite a moderate speech. He regretted this fanatical war, but felt confident that it would end in the triumph of truth and justice. He had been called back to America, and lost no time in responding, and he was ready to give his best services to his country.

Rev. Dr. MCCLINTOCK followed. He said he did not attach any importance to the mutterings of the English Press or of the Secretary of War. The people of England had not yet spoken, and when they did, their voice would not be found on the side of piracy and Slavery.

Capt. SIMMONS, of the United States Army, on his way home at the summons of Gen. SCOTT, Mr. HALDEEMAN, Minister to Sweden, and Rev. Mr. THAYER, also spoke. All the speakers evinced not the slightest doubt of the final triumph of the North.
